'That's when the night went on for days.

The Devil in Berlin,

Wake up do it over again.'

– 'Devil in Berlin'

Hound Gawd! Records announces the new album by The Cutthroat Brothers and Mike Watt, Titled 'Devil in Berlin', the album will be available as vinyl LP, CD and digital download on December 3rd. The venomous blues-punk, swamp-garage sounds of The Cutthroat Brothers conjure bands like The Gun Club, The Cramps, The Stooges, and even a taste of Sonic Youth and Hawkwind.

As 'Devil in Berlin' by The Cutthroat Brothers starts to play, You can taste the packed booze and smoke filled caverns of every garage punk club in Europe. The walls like a lung, expanding as the audience falls into a feverish trance as if possessed. You can hear the crowd's screams and the sinister laughter of The Devil himself.

The gruesome twosome, along with punk legend Mike Watt (Minutemen, Firehose, The Stooges) are back in road sharpened form. Jason Cutthroat's grinding, straight razor slide guitar and Donny Paycheck's (exZeke) pummeling, heavy-as-hell drums beat down on you in a blues punk soaked fever. Mike Watt provides the blood-like glue that brings the monster's heart to life.

Songs like 'Devil in Berlin', 'Been Away', and 'Love, Drugs, Etc.' provide hooks that stick in your brain like a grimy dance floor to the bottom of your motorcycle boots.

Screaming down the Autobahn like a rat rod hearse on fire, this is music born from punk touring. The 'Sweeney Todd's of Punk' served a successful slashing of Europe that ended right before Covid came and stopped everything rock and roll, and otherwise.

'Devil in Berlin' oozes a seedy, primal slime that grips onto and feeds greedily off of audience energy and can only survive in the dark corners of the soul. Each track a sordid, sinful sketch that can be directly attached to a night on tour.
